Anastasia discovered her passion for performance as a young girl in Austin, TX, where she was taught to deliver speeches and spoken word with a rhythm and clarity designed to get an audience on its feet. Learning the confidence required to deliver such these powerful messages can take a lifetime. Anastasia found it as soon as she stood before a microphone.

Because she was fortunate enough to grow up in an environment of free thinking and creativity, Anastasia was able develop her adeptness with words and concepts over the years by constantly studying, writing, and hearing new material. Several years of Songwriting for other artists led to her eventually experimenting behind the microphone and finding a voice of her own.

With a catalog of five well-received projects, multiple "Best Female Artist" nods (Austin Hip Hop Awards), recognition from respected media (KAZI, KUT, KOOP, Austin Chronicle, Austin American-Statesman), dynamic performances (Sound on Sound Fest, Urban Music Fest, Fun Fun Fun Festival, Hollins University Mayfest), Anastasia has worked to design and define her own niche within contemporary music.

Always full of fresh ideas for herself and her community, in 2015 Anastasia launched her non-profit organization (CAKE) which seeks to empower women and girls who have an interest in musical performance. The CAKE Project united nine established female artists from around Central Texas with the ultimate mission of providing learning and performance opportunities to other blossoming artists and businesswomen. This endeavor has solidified Anastasia's standing as a leader among peers and followers alike.

She has continually grown outside her role of artist, organizing neighborhood festivals and showcases and creating an undeniable presence in the "Live Music Capital of the World."

Understanding the importance of development and education to her artistry, Anastasia has taken time to study the details of studio set-up, recording, sonics and microphone dynamics. This experience has laid the foundation for her official sound, which is also reflected in her lyrics and cadences: edgy, direct, and artful.
